

Seminar on Artificial Intelligence and Law

Open Seminar 15 March 2018

Hosted by the Norwegian Research Center for Computers and Law (NRCCL), with support from Lovdata. The seminar incorporates lectures for JUS5670 (Electronic Commerce Law) and the NRCCL's birthday lecture, for which a registration is necessary (see below).

Programme

Part 1

Faculty of Law, Domus Academica \(urbygningen\), Aud. 4

13:30 Welcome (Professor Tobias Mahler, NRCCL, UiO)

13:35 Introduction to artificial intelligence and law (Dr. Sebastian Schwemer, Center for Information and Innovation Law, University of Copenhagen)

14:15 Break

14:30 Predicting legal decisions (Kjetil Loyland, UiO)

14:45 Legal tech and automation (Merete Nygaard, Lawbotics)

15:15 Break

15:30 Artificial intelligence clauses in commercial contracts (Per-Kaare Svendsen, Kvale)

16:10 Closing remarks (Tobias Mahler, UiO)

16:15 Closing part 1

Part 1 is open and not subject to registration. However, in the unlikely event that the room capacity should be insufficient, registered students (JUS5670) will be given priority.

Part 2 Please note: Part 2 is subject to registration (now complete). It will be held in Domus Nova, Auditorium 7 (7th floor).

17:15 NRCCL Birthday lecture: "Robot Lawyers: The Second Coming of Law and Artificial Intelligence" (Professor Malcolm Langford, Department of Public and International Law, UiO)

18.00 Reception

